Lu-Port Farms

757 County Road 2654 Loudonville, OH 44842

LU-PORT FARMS is owned and operated by Carl and Lucretia Portz along with their daughter and son-in-law Molly and Justin Ringler and grandchildren Grace (17), Steven (15), Galen (9) and Sophia (8) Ringler. In addition to milking about 100 mostly purebred Holstein dairy cows, the family farms about 300 acres of hay, corn, soybeans and wheat. Carl and Lucretia are the first generation to farm at this location.

Visitors to Lu-Port Farms will have the opportunity to tour the dairy as well as participate with the Ashland County Soil and Water activities for children and adults, alike. The farm is accessed by a shared lane and parking will take place in an adjacent field. Attendees will walk from the field to the farm and a shuttle will be available for those that have trouble walking long distances. Ice cream will be available for purchase.

Ohio Chestnut LLC & Blueberried Alive

532 County Road 2302 Loudonville, OH 44842

OHIO CHESTNUT AND BLUEBERRIED ALIVE is operated by the Stehli family, a multi-generation farm. One major priority of Ohio Chestnut is their genetic program. Ohio Chestnut has been crossing trees and planting out the seeds in an effort to create the best chestnut trees possible. Data are kept on over 20,000 trees and analyzed to determine crossbreeding, and which trees to plant more of. The traits selected for include production, nut quality, disease and insect resistance, taste, freeze resilience, flooding resilience, and other rare traits. Ohio Chestnut partners with the University of Missouri, The Savanna Institute, The Ohio Chestnut Co-op, The Ohio Nut Growers, and The Northern Nut Growers Association.

Other items of interest at the farm include the composting and biochar making areas, as well as the chestnut sorting and storing facility. There are also elderberries, pawpaws, hardy kiwi, Croatian plums, pecans, hazelnuts, butternuts, grapes, hops, pole beans, bee hives, and hickories, mostly for fun. There is also an historic barn on the farm - the older part is built with mortise and tenon joints and hand-hewn timber.

The chestnut harvest season will align with the Farm Tour so there will be an option to help with harvest when you visit! In exchange for your help, Ohio Chestnut will thank you with $20 or a voucher to use during the farm tour at the Chuy's Food Truck that will be on-site.
